CLOSING PRICES OF PHILADELPHIA STOCKS

CLOSING PRICES OF CHICAGO STOCKS. Chicago, July 8, 1896

Wednesday, July 8-p. m. Wall Street banking-houses which have Chiago wires were well filled with customers and others to-day who came down to note the prog-Chicago, and incidentally to watch the effect of the free-silver programme upon the stock market. The wires were kept active all day, and those who had them in charge at this end were about the only really busy men in the Street. The draft of the majority report on the platform was received early, and its provisions, which were of disgust from Democrats and Republicans alike. Free silver, income tax, expressions against the issuing of bonds and the old proposal of tariff for revenue only, which in the last three years has created a deficit of about $140,000,000, constitute a few of the Chicago horde's ideas of factors which will promote prosperity. And such a combination is presented to the public for its votes! A tariff for revenue only has already brought about business depression; and, not satisfied with this, it is proposed by the Chicago Convention to irritate further business interests with an unsound currency and a Populistic income tax. Such a wretched humbug as this platform will not fool the great majority of thinking men. It is the belief in the intelligence and common-sense of the American records that and common-sense of the American records that and common-sense of the American people that preserves equanimity in financial circles and encourages foreigners to take our securities in face of the success of the ignorant majority at Chicago.

general disposition of holders of stocks to keep their possessions, and the insignificant declines brought about even merely the results of the bears' efforts to move the market their way and of profit-taking sales. There was no selling pressure, and there was no sign of liquidation as the various reports from Chicago came in. The the various reports from Chicago came in. The worst that can happen at Chicago has been discounted, and it does not seem likely that the bear element will be able to repeat its successful raid of last week, for the present at least. The opening to-day was dull and irregular, and throughout the morning hours there was little or no life in the market, while fractional losses from last night's closing were made by the majority of shares. In the afternoon dulness and irregularity continued, closing rices, as a rule, being at shares. In the afternoon dulness and irregularity continued, closing rices, as a rule, being at small fractional declines. Sugar Refining, American Tobacco, St. Paul, Burlington, Chicago Gas. Rock Island, and Louisville and Nashville furnished the greater part of the day's business, the only other stocks to show any life at all being Manhattan, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Western Union and a few Industrials. Sugar Refining was erratic, and after a rally of more than 1 percent from the opening, closed at a fractional loss. American Tobacco was marked up 2 percent, but lost part of the advance. London did not make any realizing sales, and took only a passing interest in the market. No gold was taken for export to-morrow.
